ENGINEERED FLOORING

REAL HARDWOOD FLOORING WITH A PLYWOOD CORE

As a custom mill, we can mill all of our flooring products as either solid or engineered wood planks. Engineered hardwood flooring consists of a 4mm wear layer of real hardwood flooring, adhered to an 8-ply core of Russian Baltic Birch. Since engineered flooring has a wear layer of solid hardwood, it is virtually identical to solid hardwood flooring.

WHEN IS ENGINEERED FLOORING THE RIGHT CHOICE?

Engineered flooring offers more versatility than solid hardwood flooring. Engineered flooring can be installed below grade, on-grade, and above grade, while solid flooring can be installed on-grade or above-grade. Also, engineered flooring is ideal for projects with a concrete or plywood subfloor, installation over radiant heat, and projects with higher or constraisting moisture levels.
